The historical pageant, picturing in a most striking way the development of Rush county during the hundred years of its existence, served as a fitting climax to the Rush County Centennial celebration.

The pageant was given Thursday night in the coliseum in the city park which was not large enough to accommodate one-half the crowd. The conduct of the crowd was a handicap to the performance and made necessary the curtailment of several of the scenes. The amateur actors had to perform under the most adverse conditions that would have tested the art of a professional.

The people in the audience were disorderly, due to the fact that scores crowded into the aisles and cut off the view of those who had come early to get good seats, and the confusion formed an ideal setting for a few rowdies to interfere with the performance. People back of the main aisle stood up when the aisles were filled and they only added to the bedlam which prevailed by calling to those in front to sit down.

As the evening wore on and those who could not resist the heat so well, retired to the outside, the order became better and the performance was better appreciated by those who remained.

In any event it was a most creditable pageant for which those in charge deserve the most praise. By the same token, the actors are deserving of the utmost credit for their work and tireless rehearsing.

The setting was a woodland scene and the first scene opened with Robert Gantner appearing as the Herald, blowing a long silver horn and announcing the opening of the pageant. Loren Hunt, as Wilderness, appeared and then followed the dance of the wood nymphs, performed by small girls, and the dance of the seasons—flowers, snowflakes and leaves, all represented by small girls. They were appropriately costumed and their dancing was very effective. The wood nymphs were trained by A. F. Cotton and the dancers representing the season by Miss Margaret Mahin. As the scene closed, Eugene Kelly appeared as the Pioneer, coming to the new land.

The music for the dances in the first scene was provided by Miss Frances Lyons at the piano and Miss Mae Taylor, Miss Mary Louise Wyatt and Harold Sentman, violinists.

In the second scene the Indians came, Russell Titsworth taking the part of the chief and Will Worthington, the messenger. The scene was made very natural by the appearance of a number of Indians, garbed in costumes provided by the Red Men's lodge and the Degree of Pocahontas. Bernice Kelsa sang a song written to the music of the Zuni Sun God song specially for the occasion. The Indians followed with a chorus of Ojibway music and the Sioux Dance of Phantoms, all of which was authentic Indian music and made the scene very realistic.

The third scene marked the introduction of the pioneer women into the life of the community. The speaking parts in this scene were taken by Emily Maury, Ruth Seward, Margaret Bell, Mrs. Rena Warner, Mrs. Clarence Dugal and Mrs. Howard Carmichael. The scene closed with the women singing an old-fashioned song.

The fourth scene introduced the types that represented the various periods during the last hundred years, showing the changes in the style of dress. Mrs. Will Amos and

Cake Not Big Enough

The county birthday cake, although it weighed five hundred pounds, was not big enough to go around.

A. W. Wilkinson of the Quality Bake Shop, who baked the mountain of pastry and donated it for the Centennial, together with a corps of assistants, cut the cake at the relies building Thursday afternoon shortly before four o'clock.

People pushed and jammed their way to the counter to get a piece of the delicacy, and some were disappointed. Mr. Wilkinson estimated that at least 4,000 people got a piece of the cake.

B. F. Miller represented 1800; Mrs. Derby Green and Lloyd Nelson, 1842; Mrs. Earl Moore and Dr. F. M. Sparks, 1862; Miss Nancy Hogsett and Robert Hinshaw, 1882; Miss Wanda Wyatt and O. P. Wamsley, 1902, and Miss Irene Reardon and George Hogsett, 1922.

This scene closed with the song "Long, Long Ago," Mr. Miller and Miss Reardon singing the solo parts. Following each of the first four scenes the actors marched through the audience, singing the closing songs.

Each township gave a scene of the pageant, with the exception of Center and Jackson which were scheduled to have a representative on the program, but they did not appear.

Noble was first with the reproduction of the second or third business meeting of the Little Flatrock Baptist church, which was later changed to the Christian church. The lines used in the scene were the actual words spoken at the meeting, which were taken from the minutes of the church that have been preserved.

All of the characters were impersonated by their great grandsons and great, great grandsons with two exceptions. The characters and those who represented them were as follows:

Conrad Sailors, Will Logan; Benjamin Sailors, John Cain Williams, who is the grandson of Isaac Williams, credited with being the first settler in what afterwards became Rush county; John Blades, moderator, Carl Wilson; Abner Hackleman, clerk, Dr. F. G. Hackleman; John P. Thompson, Clay Carmichael; William Thompson, Johnnie H. Heeb; Jacob Hackleman, treasurer, Berl Matney, great grandson of Isaac Williams; Elias Poston, George W. Poston.

The session opened with the singing of an old hymn taken from the records and the business was then transacted as recorded in the records, wherein certain erring ones are "churched" for their misdeeds.

Richland township was represented by a quartet composed of Albert Wilson, Dorothy Tarplee, Pauline Moore and Norval Patterson, which sang one number. Miss Ruth Patterson was the accompanist at the piano. This township also presented James Beaver, whistler, who offered several familiar numbers to violin and piano accompaniment.

Miss Mary Gerard gave a brief sketch of Orange township's history and a quartet sang "Bringing in The Sheaves," which was written by Noel Shaw, famous hymn writer who was born and reared in Orange township, and belonged to the Big Flatrock Christian church.

Posey was represented by eight men who sang a song composed by eight men and containing the names of pioneer residents who figured in the early history of the township. Miss Offutt gave a short history of the township.

Rushville township was represented by Miss Margaret Herkless of this city, who recited a short history of the founding of the township.

Union township presented a quartet composed of Aaron Kennedy, Homer Hall, Charles Hires and Rea Ging, who sang "Onward Marching." Miss Helen Kennedy was the accompanist.

MAYOR ISSUES WARNING

Refers to Sale of Liquids With Alcohol Content in Assessing Fine

Mayor Walter Thomas this morning in police court, when he arraigned Lige Pea on a charge of intoxication, issued a warning to dealers of hair tonic, alcohol rub and other liquids containing a good percentage of alcohol, that prosecution will follow where they knowingly sell such goods to people whom they should suspect have intentions of drinking it. While it is legal for stores to sell these goods, yet it is not legal for them to dispose of it to persons who are inclined to apply them internally, and not according to directions.

The defendant pleaded guilty this morning, and was fined $1 and costs, and a 90 day sentence at the state farm was suspended upon promise that he would behave.

PARADE EXCELLS ALL EXPECTATIONS

Review of Historical, Fraternal and Industrial Life of the County Sets New Mark Locally

10,000 SEE THE PROCESSION

People Line Parade Route to Get a View of Marvelous Display Representing Whole County

The historical, fraternal and industrial parade held Thursday afternoon in connection with the celebration of the one hundredth birthday of Rush county can be described only in superlatives.

It so far surpassed the expectations of the committees in charge and the crowd that lined the parade route was so large that the line-of-march had to be changed at the last moment and resulted in many people along the regular parade route not seeing the floats in the retail section of the industrial division.

The parade started moving down Main street shortly before two o'clock and G. P. Hunt, grand marshal, seeing that the procession was so long that confusion would result if the regular route was followed, turned the parade from Main west into Fifth and down Morgan to Second, thence east to Main, south of First and around the court house square to Main.

When the head of the parade reached Fifth street, going north in Main, the last of the procession had not turned off Main into West Fifth street. It was impossible for the two lines to pass, due to auto.

PICTURES GROWTH OF CIVILIZATION

Albert J. Beveridge Delivers Eloquent Address Before Large Crowd at Coliseum

TRIBUTE TO THE PIONEERS

Recalls Hardships They Underwent And Price They Paid to Make Possible Today's Developments

Albert J. Beveridge, in an eloquent address, stirred two thousand people of Rush county for almost two hours at the coliseum here on Thursday afternoon, picturing the terrific pace at which civilization has moved forward during the past 100 years, when Rush county was organized as a unit in this state.

His address was delivered before a large crowd at the city park, immediately following the parade, and after being introduced by Judge Will M. Sparks, the speaker apologized for not having any prepared speech, and for the fact that his oratory would be extemporaneous.

The speaker began with the times of the early settlers, and showed their struggles until the present day when civilization reached its high state of development.

"Although Senator Watson, your townsman, was unable to be here with you today at this great celebration," Mr. Beveridge began, "and for which you are most sorry, yet it is like coming home for me to come to Rush county, and I feel like I am one of your native sons. The first address I ever delivered, when I was a college student, was in this county at Milroy, and the next one was down at Buena Vista just over the line."

"The best friends I ever had, used to reside here. There was Captain John K. Gowdy, Nate Weeks, Ike Ford and so many more, and so many women folks—but they passed away, and are resting in their final sleep."

"The minds of us today, at such a celebration and after witnessing such a wonderful and magnificent parade, are upon the men and women who settled this county and state, and the ones who have made American history," the speaker continued.

He went back to the time of that early period and painted a word picture of a young man and his wife, with probably a child or two, coming to this county, which was like all Indiana, a dense woodland, and how by his daily work, cleared a space and built a shelter and later cleared enough land to raise a crop.

He pictured this small family with all the hardships they encountered during those early days of pioneer life, and their struggle for existence, and asserted that the people today owe an unpayable debt to these settlers, which is never thought of only in times of a centenary gathering.

Mr. Beveridge related how other settlers came, and a village was formed, and time went on and a government established, until today the entire state is thickly inhabited, and the manner of living has greatly changed.

He reviewed the prices paid in those early days for labor and commodities, and stated that a skilled workman drew 7½ cents a day; hogs sold for $1.50 a head, eggs 3 cents a dozen, butter for 3 cents a pound, cows from $8 to $10, and that the best horse sold for $30 with the average being from $15 to $20.

He pointed out that the mail service in those days, when a letter from here to Iowa or Illinois would cost 12½ cents and to New York 50 cents, and that the person who received the communication had to pay for its delivery. In 1822, he said, a letter from here to New York would be on its way from a month to six weeks.

Mr. Beveridge in this connection alluded to the building of the churches and schools as examples of progress.

He pointed out that the American people were exclusive in many things, and stated that in the beginning of the country, the constitution was exclusive, and that no other country had ever patterned one like it, in which liberty is the sole object for all law-abiding people.

"Our institutions are exclusively

ESSIE PRESSNALL EXPIRES

Arlington Telephone Operator Dies Before Operation for Tumor

Miss Essie Pressnall, a telephone operator of Arlington, expired this afternoon about 1:30 o'clock at the Dr. Sexton hospital in this city, where she was brought to undergo an operation for tumor. The deceased was brought here several days ago, but her physical condition was not strong enough to withstand an operation.

The deceased was 41 years old, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Pressnall of Arlington, who survive, and also a brother, Howard Pressnall of Indianapolis. The funeral arrangements were not completed this afternoon.

FORMER PUPILS OF ONE SCHOOL ORGANIZE

Those Who Attended Frog Pond in Noble Township Plan to Hold Annual Reunions

POSEY FROG POND MEETING

One permanent organization developed here Thursday morning when the various reunions were held in connection with the Rush County Centennial, and the members of the old Frog Pond school of Noble township elected officers. Ben Reeves was chosen president; Bert Davidson, vice president and Ethel Trobaugh, secretary and treasurer. Annual reunions will be held.

The Posey township Frog Pond school held a big reunion with about 40 old members present and an interesting session was held. A letter from Tom Glass of Wichita, Kas., formerly of Arlington and who was a teacher at the school from 1872-74, was read and enjoyed by the members. An other letter by Mrs. Gustava Iles of Indianapolis, formerly of Glenwood, was read. She too was one of the earlier teachers, and is now head of a business school in Indianapolis.

Two of the former teachers, Mrs. Ed Retherford, who was Florence Morris, and Elihu Price, were present and John G. Holt of Spiceland, a student in the earlier days, gave a talk and recalled the time when there were no roads to the school. Ed Gary of Anderson, brother of A. L. Gary of this city, also was here, and a letter from Samuel R. Gilson, a shoe dealer of Kokomo, was read.

MISS FORT GRANTED LEAVE OF ABSENCE

City Nurse's Place Will Be Filled Temporarily By Mrs. Ruth Gronier Ryder

WAS FORMERLY NURSE HERE

Miss Louise Fort, city health nurse has been granted a leave of absence on account of ill health and her place will be temporarily filled by Mrs. Ruth Gronier Ryder of Littleton, N. C., who before her marriage held the position here. Miss Fort has been in poor health for several months and it is believed that with a few months rest at her home near Indianapolis, she will sufficiently recover to resume her work here.

Miss Fort, who is nearing the close of her second year as city nurse has been highly praised by the Woman's Council, the physicians and the public, and she has deserved a great deal of praise from the entire community. It is with regret that she is being compelled to retire for a few months.

Miss Fort left today for Irvington, her home, and Mrs. Ryder is expected here early next week to assume charge. In the meantime arrangements have been made to take care of the cases which are needing daily attention.

MINERS AND RAIL MEN TO CO-OPERATE

Convention of United Mine Workers and Railroad Unions to be Called For Cincinnati

JOINT ACTION IS LIKELY

Joint Meeting Will Discuss Impending Railroad Strike Now being voted on by Rail Workers

(By United Press)

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 16.—Joint action by the United Mine Workers and the railroad unions affected by the wage cuts will be discussed at a convention to be held here as soon as John L. Lewis, head of the miners, arrives, it was learned today.

E. M. Jewell, head of the rail union executive board now in session here, was expected to issue a public call this afternoon for the convention. Lewis is expected to arrive in Cincinnati tomorrow or Sunday.

The joint convention is to discuss the impending railroad strike now being voted on by the workers affected by the wage cuts.

The railroad union executives today authorized Jewell to recognize the convention with the miners under the co-operative agreement reached at Chicago following the last convention of the miners.

This agreement provides that whenever either party raises a question it is to be taken to a joint convention to discuss the matters of common interest.

The miners are agreed to the convention, Jewell was unofficially informed by William Green, secretary-treasurer of the union mine workers here today.

The forthcoming convention may result in an agreement between the miners and the rail workers to stand together in a nation-wide strike movement.

The effect of such joint action, unions leaders here pointed out, might be to help such negotiations now under way in some quarters for settlement of the coal strike.

See Interstate Meet

Terre Haute, Ind., June 16.—We believe the interstate convention of miners and operators will be held in the near future in spite of statements to the contrary. President John Hessler of District 11, United Mine Workers of America, said today. This was an answer to word from the operator's scale committeemen that they would never meet in a four-state convention to seek settlement of the coal strike.

GUARDIANSHIP CASE IS RESUMED TODAY

Defense Attempts to Show That Sanford Heaton is Not Qualified To Manage His Affairs

QUIET TITLE SUIT FILED

The case of Sanford Heaton, who is asking that his guardianship be terminated, and which began Tuesday in circuit court, was resumed this morning after a two day recess, and shortly before noon the plaintiff rested, and the defense began. It was not likely that the arguments would be completed today.

The action is being heard by a jury, and many witnesses have been used by each side. Relatives of Mr. Heaton are in favor of a guardian, and when he testified this morning, the defense attempted to show that he was not qualified to manage his own affairs, and intimated that he was trying to find someone to marry him.

When he was on the witness stand this morning, the court frequently had to compel him and the counsel for the defense to quiet down; and there were many comical scenes enacted during the trial.

A new suit was filed today in which Newton I. Gruell is the plaintiff and David Wilson et al., the defendants, the complaint being to quiet the title to some real estate.

EIGHT DEAD AND ONE MISSING IN TORNADO

Storm Takes Heavy Toll in Twin Cities and Three Counties in Western Wisconsin

FOUR DEAD AT PARIE FARM

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Minn., June 16.—Eight known dead, one missing and more than a score injured was the toll of the tornado that swept over the Twin cities and into three counties in Western Wisconsin last night.

Mrs. Bresen Foster was killed when a beam struck her on the head as their home was blown away. She was in the cellar with her husband, J. W. Foster who was injured. A widow and five children in the basement of a house next door were unhurt when their house was blown away.

At least twenty barns were blown away at the Parie farm. First reports from the Parie farm to Barron were that eighteen were killed and an investigation revealed only four bodies at the Parie farm are missing.

SUBSIDY BILL IS REPORTED

Ban On Liquor Aboard Ships Demanded By Drys Is Left Out

Washington, June 16.—The administration ship subsidy bill without the ban on the liquor aboard which was demanded by the prohibitionists in congress, was favorably reported to the house today by the merchant marine committee.

The committee rejected the amendment to the bill which asked that aid be withheld from any vessel carrying or selling liquor outside or inside the three-mile zone. This action threatened to precipitate a war between wets and drys and that may imperil the ship subsidy bill.

DR. TAYLOR IS NOMINATED

Indianapolis Man's Election by Baptists is Forecast

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—Dr. Frederick Taylor of Indianapolis was nominated for president of the Northern Baptist convention by the nominating committee today.

His election tomorrow was generally conceded. As a compromise move between the ultra-conservatives who had considered placing their own man in nomination and the liberals who control the convention, the committee named Dr. F. M. Fairchild of New York for second vice president.

Goodchild has been known by the conservative minority as their presidential timber.

KING CORN DISCOVERS RIVAL

Experiments at Nebraska University Show Dried Sugar Beet Pulp Is Valuable Feed.

Dried sugar-beet pulp will soon become a real rival of corn in livestock feeding, declares the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

This statement is based on an experiment conducted by the college during which different rations were fed 12 lots of Utah lambs, 31 to each lot, for 100 days, to determine the food value of the sugar-beet by-product in comparison with some of the standard rations, such as corn and alfalfa or corn, alfalfa, and cottonseed cake.

The beet-pulp-fed lambs led with a profit of $3.80 per head at the end of the period, while the corn-and-alfalfa-fed lot showed a profit of only $1.83 a head. The experiment proved, furthermore, that either corn or dried beet pulp is necessary to produce a finished lamb.

orate scene with eight men and eight women presenting the square dances that were in vogue not so very long ago. The music for the dance was provided by Mrs. Ben Goddard, pianist; Sam Darnell, fiddler and Roy Shelhorn playing the bass viol, and the dancers were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Piper, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Dora Jackman, Billie Bob Vansickle and Mrs. Charles Norris, Will Ruddle and Mrs. Treiman, Harmony Parsons and Mrs. Will Bosley, Monroe Gloschen and Mrs. Ned Tompkins. Mr. Piper was the caller and he and his wife responded with an encore.

Walker township was represented by Miss Irene Gahmer, who recited a short historical sketch of the founding of the township.

Miss Stella Carson, dressed in quaint old clothes, sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold" as Washington township's contribution to the pageant. Miss Grace Carson was at the piano.

Miss Isabelle Henley introduced Ripley township's scene with a short sketch showing that Ripley was one of the original townships into which the county was divided April 1, 1822. She said the first settlement was made in 1821 by a group of Friends from North Carolina in 1821 and that ever since the Society of Friends had played an important part in the history of the township. She announced that a scene from the sixties would be given and that the costumes used were worn by the ancestral mothers of the women participating. The quilt used was made by one of the pioneers.

The scene represented the Friends protecting two runaway slaves and the following took part: Jesse and Ed Henley as slaves; VanHood as a sheriff seeking the slaves; Mrs. R. H. Hill, Mrs. Mary Hubbard, Mrs. Eunice Publow, Mrs. Florence Parker, Mrs. Jesse Henley, Miss Ruth White, Miss Cora Clark and Miss Grace Overman.

This was the last township scene and in the closing scene of the pageant, the characters who figured in the early history of the county were introduced. Mrs. W. F. Kunkel appeared first as the Spirit of Progress, and the various young women who had represented the townships in previous scenes, came on again, with Miss Helen Pierson representing Rush county. Lon Havens impersonated the Rev. James Havens and typified Religion; Jesse Poe as Dr. William B. Laughlin, represented Education. Samuel L. Trabue as Governor Samuel Bigger, represented Law. Dr. Cullen Sexton as Dr. Horatio Sexton, represented Medicine, and Readle Casady represented Thomas Casady, the Revolutionary soldier buried in this county. L. B. Downey, civil war veteran, and the American Legion solar squad appeared as Loyalty, and the scene closed with the Herald blowing his trumpet, signifying that the pageant had been concluded.

The pageant was written and directed by Mrs. A. L. Gary and she had the capable assistance of Mrs. Mary Glessner, Miss Nelle Casady, Miss Belle Gregg, Miss Mary Sleeth, Miss Alice Norris, Mrs. Owen Kincaid, and others previously mentioned. Denning Havens was responsible for the woodland scene on the stage.

The long silver trumpet used by the Herald was available through the courtesy of Dr. Albert Bristow, an Indianapolis dentist. It is a family heirloom which came from England.

FEED BROOD SOWS PROTEINS

When Pasture Is Not Available Alfalfa Hay, Wheat Shorts or Tankage, Are Essential.

Brood sows should have feed that is rich in proteins, such as alfalfa hay, wheat shorts or tankage, when pasture is not available. The greatest development of the unborn pig takes place during the last 60 days of the gestation period, hence the importance of feeding brood sows from now until farrowing time.

Canny Youngster.

Helen and Edith were invited to a party, and as it was quite a distance for them to go alone it was decided to let Helen's brother Donald go with them. His mother told him if they asked him to stay he could, provided they phoned and told her. Donald took the girls to the door, and said: "My mother said I could stay and eat, too, provided you phoned and told her about it."

Bible Thoughts memorized, will prove a precious heritage in after years.

THE GOLDEN RULE:—What-soever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets.—Matt. 7:12.

Watson Starts Something

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana is receiving numerous congratulations on his speech covering the activities of foreign diplomats in attempting to influence the course of our legislation. His remarks have had an immediate effect among the foreign delegations at Washington. It is understood that Ambassador Geddes, to whose recent speeches Senator Watson specifically referred has visited Secretary Hughes in an attempt to show that he did not violate international courtesy in his public addresses. The representatives from other countries are similarly concerned, and there is every reason to believe that discretion will govern their future utterances.

It is now rumored that Ambassador Ricci of Italy may be recalled and that Marquis Della Torretta, former foreign minister of Italy may be sent to fill the post at Washington. Ricci was one of the foreign envoys to whom Senator Watson refers, and the latest developments indicate that the Hoosier senator had ample grounds for his remarks.

Peace Not Safe Yet

The war failed to insure the future peace of the world. So did the treaty of Versailles. So did the league of nations. So did the Washington conference. And the Genoa conference travel the same road. Somebody is spoiling for another scrap.

Maudlin Sentiment

Every time a notorious criminal goes to jail a lot of mushy mushies begin to coddle him.

Excuses are sought, maudlin sentiment is created, and in the end the culprit is often turned loose by a yellow jury.

That is one reason why the country is debauched with crime.

If we can't keep the criminals in jail, why not substitute the mushy mushies and jurors?

That, at least, would be some consolation.

DIES OF DIPHTHERIA

Winifred M. Lisure, aged ten years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dora Lisure, died yesterday afternoon after a ten days illness with diphtheria at her parents home two miles north of Walnut Ridge. Private funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the late residence, the Rev. Mr. Lewis of Charlottesville officiating. Nine brothers and sisters and the grandparents survive.

How I made a hit with my husband

"THE porch needed new furniture and I hated to spend the money. A friend suggested that I see what Du Pont Colored Enamels would do. Without saying a word to my husband, I got a can and tried it out on a battered old chair. Why, it looked almost new! And it really dried hard—not a bit sticky. So I renewed every piece of furniture on the porch and the woodwork in the hall, too. It was easy and I saved a big furniture bill, which didn't hurt my popularity with my husband at all."

This little story applies in many ways to many homes. How about yours?

Hard Coal and Coke Good
Combination for Baseburners

Good hard coal will probably be scarce for next winter. We can't get it at all now.

The question arises—Would it not be wise to buy coke for at least a part of my baseburner fuel? We have been fortunate the last few years in securing a coke that gives excellent satisfaction.

Not one single complaint has come to us where the coke we sell has been mixed with hard coal. Some like to use the coke by itself.

We have heard remarks like these:

"I like the coke you sold me for my baseburner. It makes a quicker fire than hard coal, and is easier to start."

"Your coke suits me for there are so few ashes."

"Mixed with hard coal I think it makes the ideal fuel. The coke makes the fire pick up quickly on a cold morning, and it holds well, too."

We now have some of this same coke. If you have a baseburner, you will make no mistake in ordering some of it. The price is $11.00 a ton delivered.

WILL PLAY SHIRLEY SUNDAY

Tail Lights Sign a New Pitcher For
The Game to be Played Here

The Tail Lights will play the Shirley A. C. team here Sunday afternoon on the West Third street diamonds, and the visiting team is said to have a strong line-up. The manager states that he has six college players, 2 ex-leaguers and 3 fast semi-pro players. The visiting team has always been represented by a fast bunch, and play only on the road, not having any place to play at Shirley.

The Tail Lights will have a new pitcher in the game, who has been highly recommended by John Spinnery of Cincinnati and whose name is Valentine. The local team will line-up with about the same team that has been used in the last few games.

Mitchellson, Boston outfielder, hit a homer in the thirteenth inning with Southworth on base and beat the Cardinals.

Elmer Smith hit a home run and gave the Indians a victory over the Athletics.

The Pirates beat the Robins in the seventeenth inning.

The Score Board

Yesterday's hero—George Kelly tied the score with a triple and drove in two runs with a double that enabled the Giants to beat the Pirates 4 to 2.

Topper Reigny tripled in the eighth after Cobb and Heilman had singled and the Tigers nabbed two runs that beat the Yanks, 2 to 1.

Stock tied the score with a homer in the ninth inning and Hornsby won the game in the tenth with a double, the Cards topping the Robins 4 to 3. After a two months lay off, Duster Mails pitched six innings for the Indians and had to retire, the Red Sox, winning 8 to 3.

McManus' homer with Sisler on base gave the Browns a 3 to 2 win over the Senators. The homer was a line drive that bounded over the left field fence.

George Smith let the Reds down with six scattered hits and the Phils finally won a game, 7 to 0.

With the bases filled, Hauser, pinch hitter, singled and gave the Athletics a 10 to 8 victory from the White Sox. Walker hit his twelfth home run and Dykes his sixth.

PARADE EXCELS ALL EXPECTATIONS

mobiles lining both sides of the street, and the procession was lead into East Fifth and thence north in Perkins to Ninth, where it turned west to the coliseum. There were thousands of people standing along Ninth street and along Main above Seventh who did not see any of the retailers' floats because most of them dropped out after the procession started north in Perkins street.

The parade revealed the progress of the century in Rush county as nothing else could have done. The historical division was especially effective in this respect, the township floats depicting some historical incident in connection with the life of the political unit.

It is estimated that at least ten thousands persons were in Rushville for the review. The crowd surged about the streets downtown and lined the parade route along Main street as far north as Ninth.

Forty-five minutes were required for the procession to pass the reviewing stand on the north steps of the court house.

Four mounted policemen lead the parade, followed by the Rushville band. The fire department display represented all of the different methods that have been employed to fight fire—the first bucket brigade truck, which was drawn by a mule, the fire engine bought in 1893 when W. T. Jackson was mayor, the combination hose and ladder wagon purchased in 1908 when H. M. Cowing was mayor, the small chemical motor truck added to the department in 1917 when C. L. Bebout was mayor and the modern motor pumper ordered in 1921 when R. F. Seudder was mayor.

Next in order was a demonstration by the postal service showing the different ways of carrying the mail during the last 100 years. First came a man on horseback with a mail sack thrown over his head, then the horse-drawn wagons which were formerly used on rural routes, then thirteen mail carriers of the county in their cars, then a truck loaded with parcel post and finally a truck with a diminutive airplane on the front and a replica of a locomotive and mail car on the rear.

The Rushville township delegation, first in the historical division exhibited the different modes of travel used during the first century of the county's existence. First were men afoot and then men and women on horseback, some of them riding double as was the custom in the pioneer days. Following was a hay wagon hauling Rushville girls advertising a home-talent show to be given here soon, then a cart and a buggy and a carriage, followed by a decorated bicycle, one of the vintage of the eighties, ridden by William Arbuckle of Homer. Next was an old Maxwell automobile which a sign said was found in an alley, followed by a late model of the same make. Following were two very late models of automobiles. Representatives of Rush post No. 150 of the American Legion and Company C of the Indiana National Guard brought up the rear of the Rushville section.

Many of the townships with floats had no markers on them and the thousands of people were at a loss to account for this oversight. Following the Rushville township delegation was an automobile, a cart drawn by a mule, a prairie schooner, a log house mounted on a wagon, four persons on horseback, none of which bore any sign to indicate what they represented.

Next in order was an old one-cylinder car and following was a farm wagon attractively decorated representing Noble township. A white mule team attractively decorated representing Noble township. A white mule team pulled a prairie schooner bearing the words, "North Carolina, 1822." Ripley township was represented by two modern automobiles and a beautiful float.

The Anderson township delegation made a splendid showing. It was led by Charles Davis astride a horse and bearing a banner indicating the demonstration meant. Two children on horseback rode beside Mr. Davis and following him were two old-time hunters afoot and leading their coon dogs. Next was a log cabin mounted on a truck, on the rear of which sat a man and woman garbed in clothes of the pioneer days. Then came six persons on horseback, some dressed in riding habits that were once in vogue, and an old fashioned carryall. Next was the Anderson township singing school, composed of several men and women in pioneer dress. They made it more realistic by singing old-time songs with a leader standing before them. They rode in an old-fashioned, horse-drawn vehicle. A decorated rooster and a very artistic float representing the horn of plenty, was the last of the Anderson township delegation.

Coming next were seven decorated automobiles and two decorated automobile trucks bearing school children, which was Union township's contribution to the parade. Walker township was represented by a float on which sat men and women dressed in the different styles that have come and gone in the past. Following the float were a man and woman on horseback, garbed in riding habits which were once in style. Bringing up the rear of the historical section were two machines bearing Rushville boys who are taking summer work under A. F. Cotton. Following were several decorated bicycles.

The fraternal section was lead by the Indiana Masonic Home Boys' band of Franklin, headed by little Donnie Jim Cochran, six years old, toggled out with high fuzzy hat and drum major's stick, every inch a leader.

Next came the Knights of Columbus float, an immense boat, a replica of the one in which Columbus sailed to America. A boy standing on the deck represented Columbus. Following was an equally beautiful float entered by St. Mary's Catholic church, representing religion, art and science. Both floats were built on wagons drawn by four horses.

Next came eighteen Indians mounted and sixteen walking, all decorated with their war paint. Immediately following was the Red Men's float and then a float by the Ladies of the G. A. R. in which they were represented as ministering to the wants of a war veteran. Next in order were two Odd Fellows floats carrying many banners, the first one setting forth the fact that the lodge had five members and no resources 100 years ago and the second one the fact that the lodge was the largest in the world now, both in point of numbers and resources.

Following was the Royal Neighbors float and then one representing the Modern Woodmen, attached to which was another float built on a wagon representing "The Unprotected Home." Then came the Tall Cedars, Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters floats. The fraternal division ended with a decorated automobile representing the Elks lodge.

The Knightstown Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home band led the industrial section and was followed by the Daily Republican's truck, which was an immense sign built over an automobile, bordered on the bottom with samples of the papers covering a period of fifty years. Next was a truck bearing a machine which is manufactured by Charles E. Francis & Co., makers of glue working machinery and factory trucks. The Dill Foundry company was represented by samples of castings they make, displayed on a truck, and following it were Mr. and Mrs. Will Dill riding in an old-fashioned carriage. The next combined old age and modern travel. Mrs. Susan Tingley, ninety-eight years old, rode with Mrs. Sarah Giffin in a new automobile. Kyle's paint shop was represented by a decorated car.

The Reynolds Manufacturing Company made the most elaborate display of any establishment in the county, just as this concern did in the Centennial parade of 1916. First rode Frank Reynolds, the head of the company, followed in another machine by George Moore, Jr., superintendent. Next came the timber buyers for the company in two automobiles and following them were the men who cut the logs, riding in an old-fashioned, horse-drawn vehicle. Next was a wagon showing the operation of sawing a log and following were nine log teams, every wagon well loaded, each with a different kind of timber. The next thing was labeled the "Go-Getter," which was a small caterpillar truck that drags logs from the woods to open places where they may be loaded. Then came two trucks loaded with logs and a hand saw 37 feet long and containing 296 teeth. The saw was bent and held tight in a frame built on a wagon. Then followed the finished product, a load of sawed lumber, a load of dimension crating and a load of dry and green kindling. This ended the Reynolds display.

A replica of a house, complete in every detail, built on a truck, was the entry of the Capitol Lumber Co., and it won a lot of applause all along the parade route. Castings made at the Arbuckle foundry were displayed on a truck and the Rushville Furniture company was represented by a bedroom suit attractively arranged on a decorated truck. The Innis, Pearce Co., likewise was represented by a decorated float bearing a beautiful bedroom suit and following this was an exhibit of library furniture made by the Park Furniture Co.

Next were floats bearing displays of the National Gate Co., and the Schriebe Monument Works. A tractor representing the Rushville Implement Co., followed by a float showing the Hoosier Corn Turner company's product. Following was an old Franklin owned by H. V. Lewark of Glenwood, pulling a 1922 model Franklin sedan in which Joe Clark, local Franklin man, rode. A similar arrangement was used to demonstrate of the Ratekin hitch. Next came a White Star gasoline truck and then three models of Chevrolet and Buicks sold by John Knecht. Next came the Rush County Mills, Winkler Grain Co. and Red Crown gasoline trucks. Following were floats entered by the American Paper Products Co., and the DeSchipper canning factory, both of Carthage and both displaying their products. Next was a decorated automobile representing the Boxley Piano Co.

Following was a beautiful float, "A study in black and white," entered by George C. Wyatt & Co., which had to be seen to be appreciated. Next was a beautiful float entered by E. R. Casady and following were floats and decorated machines representing Bowen's garage, Johnson's drug store, Finney's bicycle shop and O'Neal Brothers. Next came an Oldsmobile built in 1899, driven by Nick Tompkins, local representative, and followed by a 1922 model. The Arlington band marched in the retail section of the retail division.

Others represented in the retail section with floats, decorated machines and by other means were H. S. Havens, the Callaghan Co., Will Treanepohl, L. C. Sharp, the Manzy Co., McIntyre's shoe store, the O. P. C. H. Piman and Wilson's drug store, Bussard's garage, Hargrove and Mullin's drug store, Wingerter's cigar shop, Charles Brown's grocery, Shuster and Epstein, Maseari's fruit store, Pence's auto top factory and Mullins and Taylor, Ford and Fordson dealers.

HAVE YOU A COUGH?

What This Woman Says is of Vital Interest to You

Goshen, Ind.—"I had coughed night and day for a whole year and had lost so much flesh I began to look like a walking skeleton. Two of my sisters had died from tuberculosis and I felt certain that my time had come. Finally, a friend recommended Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to my husband, and it made me feel new strength and vitality right from the start and in a year's time I was just as strong and hardy as ever. I have never suffered with a deep, hacking cough since (that was about 20 years ago) and have always felt very grateful to Dr. Pierce."—Mrs. Eliza Teeter, 413 Middlebury St.

Whenever you feel the need of good confidential medical advice, address Dr. Pierce, president Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo N. Y., and answer will be returned without charge of any kind.

Too Busy?

Too busy to go to church Sunday? Some day the angel of death will tap your shoulder. You cannot put him off.

Why not cultivate the spiritual side of your nature?

The old commandment: "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work; but the seventh day is a Sabbath" was intended for you. Cold-blooded economists tell us that men who rest on Sunday do the most work.

There is a seat for you in this church. Come Sunday.

Remember the Sabbath to keep it holy. In it thou shalt not do any work.

Women Men Admire

Men admire a pretty face, a good figure, but more than all a buoyant disposition and the charm of happy content. There is no question but what a light-hearted woman is the joy of a man's life, but no woman can be happy and joyful when dragged down by the ailments that so often develop headaches, backache, nervousness and "the blues."

American" Mr. Beveridge continued, "and there is not another country on the globe like the United States. Even the racial populace of our country is different from any other. In France it is the French, in England it is the English, in Belgium the people are Belgians and in Italy they are Italians."

"Over here in America we have a mixed populace; three-fourths of a million are Greeks, 5,000,000 are Italians, as many Scandinavians as there are people in Canada, 15,000,000 English, 20,000,000 Germans, 2 or 3 million Belgians besides Russians, Chinese, Japanese and others. They are all a collection of racial groups."

In this connection, he prayed that the day was not far distant when all of these could be boiled down into one group, to be known to the world as American People—and to be a different race from any other country.

Besides the constitution, the institutions, the people, all being exclusively American, he stated that the laws of our country stood out as exclusive laws, and were unlike any other republic on the globe.

In this particular point, he brought out the fact that the courts have the power to overthrow legislation which they believe is unjust, and that this element is the heart of the American constitutional system.

In connection with the mixed race which the speaker would have embodied into a new racial group, he stated that this would be the only way that propaganda could be suppressed, which is dangerous to any government.

The speaker then discussed the wars in which the United States had taken part, and brought out forcibly that every war this nation has waged, she was in the right.

He praised the records of Rush county soldiers in all of these conflicts, and remarked that the first general for the Union army to be killed on the battlefield was General P. A. Haeckleman of this county and that the first soldier to be killed in another great battle was a color bearer, Steve Bodine, also of this county, and he said there were others who had fallen with the tide that swept the nation.

He called attention to the fact that out of this county 2400 volunteers appeared during that civil strife, and that Abraham Lincoln, then president, told Gov. Oliver Morton that Rush county, Indiana, furnished more soldiers than any other spot in the north.

The orator touched upon the war of 1898, and when he came up to the World War of 1917, he was interrupted by John Nipp, Sr., who was sitting in the center of the audience. Mr. Nipp shouted for him not to mention that war.

Mr. Beveridge stated that he intended to go on, and people in the audience urged him to continue, and as he related the circumstances causing the war, he was given a great ovation when he shouted, "And our American soldiers won the war."

The speaker was interrupted several more times during the closing remarks by Mr. Beveridge, when he referred to the allies debt, and urged that they should be forced to pay, which was against the wishes of Mr. Nipp, who was again hooted by the audience when the speaker brought home most eloquently the fact again that it was the American's money that had been loaned during the Liberty bond drives.

"The hardest campaigns that I ever fought, or ever hope to fight for," Mr. Beveridge continued, "was during that war when I fought for subscriptions. Farmers donated most liberally, many of them over-subscribed and had to borrow money; school teachers that I knew invested all of their savings, to help win that war, and I myself, bought and bought and even borrowed money to buy more," and directing his finger at Mr. Nipp, he shouted, "And how much did you buy?" Mr. Nipp replied, "Not a dollar, not a dollar."

In closing his address the speaker again pointed out after reviewing the wars, that every war waged by this country was just and righteous.

When Mr. Beveridge concluded his speech, he was loudly applauded and Judge Sparks stepped to the center of the stage and offered to apologize for the manner in which he had been interrupted, and remarked that such occurrences are not frequently indulged in by Rush county audiences. The audience again cheered Judge Sparks, and A. L. Gary, who was the government appeal agent during the war, stepped up, and shouted that "The man who interrupted you, Mr. Beveridge, was the most disloyal citizen in Rush county during the war."

Crowds gathered around Mr. Nipp at the close of the speech, and several fists were thrust into his face. When he attempted to reach Mr. Beveridge on the stage to continue the argument, he was escorted out of the building.

AMUSEMENTS

Gorgeous Costumes In Picture

The flapper's secret obsession is how to wear clothes, clothes, clothes, in such a manner as to bring out every charm she possesses. Rich girls, poor girls think of this constantly, and it must be pretty nearly true, for Solomon in all his glory was never arrayed as one of these twentieth century heart smashers.

All of which brings forth the fact that Marie Prevost, the Universal star whose chief hobby is designing her own clothes for screen appearances, has a few nifty creations of the Long Island-1922 type on display in her new starring vehicle, "The Dangerous Little Demon," at the Princess today and Saturday.

Since Marie quit the sea and hung up the raiment of the beach, in which she won her fame as a California peach, she has never worn such ravishing clothes as she wears in this Universal comedy.

In addition to this feature show, two high class acts of vaudeville will be shown and a Mack Sennett comedy.

At Mystic Today.

Many of the exterior scenes in "High-Gear Jeffrey," showing at the Mystic theatre today were taken in Los Angeles. In this feature Wm. Russell appears as the driver of a public taxi-cab, and looks the part to a T. While waiting at the curb to be snapped by the camera man, a prospective passenger demanded to be taken immediately to the Southern Pacific Station, offering a bonus for a quick trip. Russell was game and ready to accept the job, but Director Edward Sloman insisted on immediately shooting the scene. The would-be "fare" departed in high dudgeon, commenting angrily on the independence of taxi-drivers in general, and this chameleon in particular.

"High-Gear Jeffrey" is a typical Russell feature, cram-jam with quick action and scenes which swing constantly from high tension to comedy and back again.

FISHING FOR BASS IS NOW PERMITTED

Word Reaching Conservation Officials Indicate Thousands Of Persons Took Advantage Of Law

YOUNG FISH ARE PLENTIFUL

Desire Of Division To Educate People of State to Observe Games Laws And Secure Cooperation

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16 — Today marked the opening for lawful fishing for black bass and blue gills in Indiana public waters, and word reaching conservation officials indicate that thousands of persons took advantage of the first of the open season and tried their luck for the elusive big ones.

Bass and blue gills have been protected since April 30 by a state law which establishes the closed season in order these fishes reproduce in a natural way free from disturbance from anglers. George N. Mannfeld, chief of the fish and game division of the state conservation department, estimates that millions of young fish are now in public waters of this state that would not be there had there been no protected season.

Mr. Mannfeld today called attention to the latest publication of his division. It is a condensed pocket-size pamphlet giving the fish and game laws, open and closed seasons and a variety of useful information for people who wish to obey the laws when fishing and hunting in Indiana. Fifty thousand pamphlets are just off the press and are for free distribution. Write the fish and game division of the conservation department if you wish one, he says.

"It is the desire of this division to educate people of the state to observance of fish and game laws and thus secure their cooperation in our work rather than to force observance through the warden service," Mr. Mannfeld said. He believes everyone who hunts and fishes should possess one of the new pamphlets for many violations occurring in the year are by persons without knowledge of the laws and who are not wilful violators by any means. For that class which seek piratical methods to secure their game, they can only be regulated by the warden service, Mannfeld says.

Mr. Mannfeld points out that a

The historical pageant, picturing in a most striking way the development of Rush county during the hundred years of its existence, served as a fitting climax to the Rush County Centennial celebration.

The pageant was given Thursday night in the coliseum in the city park which was not large enough to accommodate one-half the crowd. The conduct of the crowd was a handicap to the performance and made necessary the curtailment of several of the scenes. The amateur actors had to perform under the most adverse conditions that would have tested the art of a professional.

The people in the audience were disorderly, due to the fact that scores crowded into the aisles and cut off the view of those who had come early to get good seats, and the confusion formed an ideal setting for a few rowdies to interfere with the performance. People back of the main aisle stood up when the aisles were filled and they only added to the hellam which prevailed by calling to those in front to sit down.

As the evening wore on and those who could not resist the heat so well, retired to the outside, the order became better and the performance was better appreciated by those who remained.

In any event it was a most creditable pageant for which those in charge deserve the most praise. By the same token, the actors are deserving of the utmost credit for their work and tireless rehearsing.

The setting was a woodland scene and the first scene opened with Robert Gantner appearing as the Herald, blowing a long silver horn and announcing the opening of the pageant. Loren Hunt, as Wilderness, appeared and then followed the dance of the wood nymphs, performed by small girls, and the dance of the seasons—flowers, snowflakes and leaves, all represented by small girls. They were appropriately costumed and their dancing was very effective. The wood nymphs were trained by A. F. Cotton and the dancers representing the season by Miss Margaret Mahin. As the scene closed, Eugene Kelly appeared as the Pioneer, coming to the new land.

The music for the dances in the first scene was provided by Miss Frances Lyons at the piano and Miss Mae Taylor, Miss Mary Louise Wyatt and Harold Sentman, violinists.

In the second scene the Indians came, Russell Fitzworth taking the part of the chief and Will Worthington, the messenger. The scene was made very natural by the appearance of a number of Indians, garbed in costumes provided by the Red Men's lodge and the Degree of Pocahontas. Bernice Kelso sang a song written to the music of the Zuni Sun God song specially for the occasion. The Indians followed with a chorus of Ojibway music and the Sioux Dance of Phantoms, all of which was authentic Indian music and made the scene very realistic.

The third scene marked the introduction of the pioneer women into the life of the community. The speaking parts in this scene were taken by Emily Manzy, Ruth Seward, Margaret Bell, Mrs. Rena Warner, Mrs. Clarence Dugal and Mrs. Howard Carmichael. The scene closed with the women singing an old-fashioned song.

The fourth scene introduced the types that represented the various periods during the last hundred years, showing the changes in the style of dress. Mrs. Will Amos and

Cake Not Big Enough

The county birthday cake, although it weighed five hundred pounds, was not big enough to go around.

A. W. Wilkinson of the Quality Bake Shop, who baked the mountain of pastry and donated it for the Centennial, together with a corps of assistants, cut the cake at the relief building Thursday afternoon shortly before four o'clock.

People pushed and jammed their way to the counter to get a piece of the delicacy, and some were disappointed. Mr. Wilkinson estimated that at least 4,000 people got a piece of the cake.

B. F. Miller represented 1800; Mrs. Derby Green and Lloyd Nelson, 1842; Mrs. Earl Moore and Dr. F. M. Sparks, 1862; Miss Nancy Hoggsett and Robert Hinshaw, 1882; Miss Wanda Wyatt and O. P. Wamsley, 1902, and Miss Irene Reardon and George Hoggsett, 1922.

This scene closed with the song "Long, Long Ago," Mr. Miller and Miss Reardon singing the solo parts. Following each of the first four scenes the actors marched through the audience, singing the closing songs.

Each township gave a scene of the pageant, with the exception of Center and Jackson which were scheduled to have a representative on the program, but they did not appear.

Noble was first with the reproduction of the second or third business meeting of the Little Flatrock Baptist church, which was later changed to the Christian church. The lines used in the scene were the actual words spoken at the meeting, which were taken from the minutes of the church that have been preserved.

All of the characters were impersonated by their great grandsons and great, great grandsons with two exceptions. The characters and those who represented them were as follows:

Conrad Sailors, Will Logan; Benjamin Sailors, John Cain Williams, who is the grandson of Isaac Williams, credited with being the first settler in what afterwards became Rush county; John Blades, moderator, Carl Wilson; Abner Hackleman, clerk, Dr. F. G. Hackleman; John P. Thompson, Clay Carmichael; William Thompson, Johnnie H. Heeb; Jacob Hackleman, treasurer, Bert Matney, great grandson of Isaac Williams; Elias Poston, George W. Poston.

The session opened with the singing of an old hymn taken from the records and the business was then transacted as recorded in the records, wherein certain erring ones are "churched" for their misdeeds.

Richland township was represented by a quartet composed of Albert Wilson, Dorothy Tarplee, Pauline Moore and Norval Patterson, which sang one number. Miss Ruth Patterson was the accompanist at the piano. This township also presented James Beaver, whistler, who offered several familiar numbers to violin and piano accompaniment.

Miss Mary Gerard gave a brief sketch of Orange township's history and a quartet sang "Bringing in the Sheaves," which was written by Noel Shaw, famous hymn writer who was born and reared in Orange township, and belonged to the Big Flatrock Christian church.

Posey was represented by eight men who sang a song composed by eight men and containing the names of pioneer residents who figured in the early history of the township. Miss Offutt gave a short history of the township.

Rushville township was represented by Miss Margaret Herkless of this city, who recited a short history of the founding of the township.

Union township presented a quartet composed of Aaron Kennedy, Homer Hall, Charles Hires and Rea Ging, who sang "Onward Marching." Miss Helen Kennedy was the accompanist.

Anderson township had an elaborate

Mayor Walter Thomas this morning in police court, when he arraigned Lige Pea on a charge of intoxication, issued a warning to dealers of hair tonic, alcohol rub and other liquids containing a good percentage of alcohol, that prosecution will follow where they knowingly sell such goods to people whom they should suspect have intentions of drinking it. While it is legal for stores to sell these goods, yet it is not legal for them to dispose of it to persons who are inclined to apply them internally, and not according to directions.

People Line Parade Route to Get a View of Marvelous Display Representing Whole County

The historical, fraternal and industrial parade held Thursday afternoon in connection with the celebration of the one hundredth birthday of Rush county can be described only in superlatives.

It so far surpassed the expectations of the committees in charge and the crowd that lined the parade route was so large that the line-of-march had to be changed at the last moment and resulted in many people along the regular parade route not seeing the floats in the retail section of the industrial division.

The parade started moving down Main street shortly before two o'clock and G. P. Hunt, grand marshal, seeing that the procession was so long that confusion would result if the regular route was followed, turned the parade from Main west into Fifth and down Morgan to Second, thence east to Main, south of First and around the court house square to Main.

When the head of the parade reached Fifth street, going north in Main, the last of the procession had not turned off Main into West Fifth street. It was impossible for the two lines to pass, due to auto.

Albert J. Beveridge Delivers Eloquent Address Before Large Crowd at Coliseum

TRIBUTE TO THE PIONEERS

Recalls Hardships They Underwent And Price They Paid to Make Possible Today's Developments

Albert J. Beveridge, in an eloquent address, stirred two thousand people of Rush county for almost two hours at the coliseum here on Thursday afternoon, picturing the terrific pace at which civilization has moved forward during the past 100 years, when Rush county was organized as a unit in this state.

His address was delivered before a large crowd at the city park, immediately following the parade, and after being introduced by Judge Will M. Sparks, the speaker apologized for not having any prepared speech, and for the fact that his oratory would be extemporaneous.

The speaker began with the times of the early settlers, and showed their struggles until the present day when civilization reached its high state of development.

"Although Senator Watson, your townsman, was unable to be here with you today at this great celebration," Mr. Beveridge began, "and for which you are most sorry, yet it is like coming home for me to come to Rush county, and I feel like I am one of your native sons. The first address I ever delivered, when I was a college student, was in this county, at Milroy, and the next one was down at Buena Vista just over the line."

"The best friends I ever had, used to reside here. There was Captain John K. Gowdy, Nate Weeks, Ike Ford and so many more, and so many women folks—but they passed now, and are resting in their final sleep."

"The minds of us today, at such a celebration and after witnessing such a wonderful and magnificent parade, are upon the men and women who settled this county and state, and the ones who have made American history," the speaker continued. "He went back to the time of that early period and painted a word picture of a young man and his wife, with probably a child or two, coming to this county, which was like all Indiana, a dense woodland, and how by his daily work, cleared a space and built a shelter and later cleared enough land to raise a crop."

He pictured this small family with all the hardships they encountered during those early days of pioneer life, and their struggle for existence, and asserted that the people today owe an unpayable debt to these settlers, which is never thought of only in times of a centenary gathering.

Mr. Beveridge related how other settlers came, and a village was formed, and time went on and a government established, until today the entire state is thickly inhabited, and the manner of living has greatly changed.

He reviewed the prices paid in those early days for labor and commodities, and stated that a skilled workman drew 75 cents a day; hogs sold for $1.50 a head, eggs 3 cents a dozen, butter for 3 cents a pound, cows from $8 to $10, and that the best horse sold for $30 with the average being from $15 to $20.

He pointed out that the mail service in those days, when a letter from here to Iowa or Illinois would cost 121 cents and to New York 50 cents, and that the person who received the communication had to pay for its delivery. In 1822, he said, a letter from here to New York would be on its way from a month to six weeks.

Mr. Beveridge in this connection alluded to the building of the churches and schools as examples of progress.

He pointed out that the American people were exclusive in many things, and stated that in the beginning of the country, the constitution was exclusive, and that no other country had ever patterned one like it, in which liberty is the sole object for all law-abiding people.

POSEY FROG POND MEETING

One permanent organization developed here Thursday morning when the various reunions were held in connection with the Rush County Centennial, and the members of the old Frog Pond school of Noble township elected officers. Ben Reeves was chosen president; Bert Davidson, vice president and Elhel Trobaugh, secretary and treasurer; Annual reunions will be held.

The Posey township Frog Pond school held a big reunion with about 40 old members present and an interesting session was held. A letter from Tom Glass, of Wichita, Kas., formerly of Arlington and who was a teacher at the school from 1872-74, was read and enjoyed by the members. An other letter by Mrs. Gustava Hies of Indianapolis, formerly of Glenwood, was read. She too was one of the earlier teachers, and is now head of a business school in Indianapolis.

Two of the former teachers, Mrs. Ed Retherford, who was Florence Morris, and Elihu Price, were present and John G. Holt of Spiceland, a student in the earlier days, gave a talk and recalled the time when there were no roads to the school. Ed Gary of Anderson, brother of A. L. Gary of this city, also was here, and a letter from Samuel R. Gilson, a shoe dealer of Kokomo, was read.

City Nurse's Place Will Be Filled Temporarily By Mrs. Ruth Gronier Ryder

WAS FORMERLY NURSE HERE

Miss Louise Fort, city health nurse has been granted a leave of absence on account of ill health and her place will be temporarily filled by Mrs. Ruth Gronier Ryder of Littleton, N. C., who before her marriage held the position here. Miss Fort has been in poor health for several months and it is believed that with a few months rest at her home near Indianapolis, she will sufficiently recover to resume her work here.

Miss Fort, who is nearing the close of her second year as city nurse has been highly praised by the Woman's Council, the physicians and the public, and she has deserved a great deal of praise from the entire community. It is with regret that she is being compelled to retire for a few months.

Miss Fort left today for Irvington, her home, and Mrs. Ryder is expected here early next week to assume charge. In the meantime arrangements have been made to take care of the cases which are needing daily attention.

MINERS AND RAIL

Convention of United Mine Workers and Railroad Unions to be Called For Cincinnati

JOINT ACTION IS LIKELY

Joint Meeting Will Discuss Impending Railroad Strike Now being voted on by Rail Workers

(By United Press)
Cincinnati, Ohio, June 16.—Joint action by the United Mine Workers and the railroad unions affected by the wage cuts will be discussed at a convention to be held here as soon as John L. Lewis, head of the miners, arrives, it was learned today.

E. M. Jewell, head of the rail union executive board now in session here, was expected to issue a public call this afternoon for the convention. Lewis is expected to arrive in Cincinnati tomorrow or Sunday.

The joint convention is to discuss the impending railroad strike now being voted on by the workers affected by the wage cuts.

The railroad union executives today authorized Jewell to recognize the convention with the miners under the co-operative agreement reached at Chicago following the last convention of the miners.

This agreement provides that whenever either party raises a question it is to be taken to a joint convention to discuss the matters of common interest.

The miners are agreed to the convention. Jewell was unofficially informed by William Green, secretary-treasurer of the union mine workers here today.

The forthcoming convention may result in an agreement between the miners and the rail workers to stand together in a nation-wide strike movement.

The effect of such joint action, unions leaders here pointed out, might be to help such negotiations now under way in some quarters for settlement of the coal strike.

See Interstate Meet

Terre Haute, Ind., June 16.—We believe the interstate convention of miners and operators will be held in the near future in spite of statements to the contrary, President John Hessler of District 11, United Mine Workers of America, said today. This was an answer to word from the operator's scale committeemen that they would never meet in a four-state convention to seek settlement of the coal strike.

GUARDIANSHIP CASE IS RESUMED TODAY

Defense Attempts to Show That Sanford Heaton is Not Qualified To Manage His Affairs

QUIET TITLE SUIT FILED

The case of Sanford Heaton, who is asking that his guardianship be terminated, and which began Tuesday in circuit court, was resumed this morning after a two day recess, and shortly before noon the plaintiff rested, and the defense began. It was not likely that the arguments would be completed today.

The action is being heard by a jury, and many witnesses have been used by each side. Relatives of Mr. Heaton are in favor of a guardian, and when he testified this morning, the defense attempted to show that he was not qualified to manage his own affairs, and intimated that he was trying to find someone to marry him.

When he was on the witness stand this morning, the court frequently had to compel him and the counsel for the defense to quiet down, and there were many comical scenes enacted during the trial.

A new suit, was filed today in which Newton I. Gruell is the plaintiff and David Wilson et al., the defendants, the complaint being to quiet the title to some real estate.

EIGHT DEAD AND ONE MISSING IN TORNADO

Storm Takes Heavy Toll in Twin Cities and Three Counties in Western Wisconsin

FOUR DEAD AT PARIE FARM

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Minn., June 16.—Eight known dead, one missing and more than a score injured was the toll of the tornado that swept over the Twin cities and into three counties in Western Wisconsin last night.

Mrs. Bessie Foster was killed when a beam struck her on the head as their home was blown away. She was in the cellar with her husband, J. W. Foster who was injured. A widow and five children in the basement of a house next door were unhurt when their house was blown away.

At least twenty barns were blown away at the Parie farm. First reports from the Parie farm to Barron were that eighteen were killed and an investigation revealed only four bodies at the Parie farm are missing.

SUBSIDY BILL IS REPORTED

Washington, June 16.—The administration ship subsidy bill without the ban on the liquor aboard which was demanded by the prohibitionists in congress, was favorably reported to the house today by the merchant marine committee.

The committee rejected the amendment to the bill which asked that aid be withheld from any vessel carrying or selling liquor outside or inside the three-mile zone. This action threatened to precipitate a war between wets and drys and that may imperil the ship subsidy bill.

DR. TAYLOR IS NOMINATED

Indianapolis Man's Election by Baptists is Forecast

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—Dr. Frederick Taylor of Indianapolis was nominated for president of the Northern Baptist convention by the nominating committee today.

His election tomorrow was generally conceded. As a compromise move between the ultra-conservatives who had considered placing their own man in nomination and the liberals who control the convention, the committee named Dr. F. M. Fairchild of New York for second vice president.

Goodchild has been known by the conservative minority as their presidential timber.

KING CORN DISCOVERS RIVAL

Experiments at Nebraska University Show Dried Sugar Beet Pulp Is Valuable Feed.

Dried sugar-beet pulp will soon become a real rival of corn in livestock feeding, declares the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

This statement is based on an experiment conducted by the college during which different rations were fed 12 lots of Utah lambs, 31 to each lot, for 100 days, to determine the food value of the sugar-beet by-product in comparison with some of the standard rations, such as corn and alfalfa or corn, alfalfa, and cottonseed cake.

The beet-pulp-fed lambs led with a profit of $3.80 per head at the end of the period, while the corn-and-alfalfa-fed lot showed a profit of only $1.83 a head. The experiment proved, furthermore, that either corn or dried beet pulp is necessary to produce a finished lamb.

Hog Harvesting Time.

Farrowing time is harvest time in the hog business. Success at this time means live pigs that will quickly grow into cash; failure means dead pigs that will grow into an entry on the wrong side of the ledger.

Clip Horses Before Spring.

Clipping is a practice that should be more universally adopted than it is for it is an excellent thing for the work horse that has been idle the greater part of the winter and is put to heavy work during the spring.

orate scene with eight men and eight women presenting the square dances that were in vogue not so very long ago. The music for the dance was provided by Mrs. Ben Goddard, pianist; Sam Darnell, fiddler and Roy Shellhorn playing the bass viol, and the dancers were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Piper, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Dora Jackman, Billie Bob Vansickle and Mrs. Charles Norris, Will Ruddle and Mrs. Treiman, Harmony Parsons and Mrs. Will Bosley, Monroe Gloschen and Mrs. Ned Tompkins. Mr. Piper was the caller and he and his wife responded with an encore.

Walker township was represented by Miss Irene Gabimer, who recited a short historical sketch of the founding of the township.

Miss Stella Carson, dressed in quaint old clothes, sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold" as Washington township's contribution to the pageant. Miss Grace Carson was at the piano.

Miss Isabelle Henley introduced Ripley township's scene with a short sketch showing that Ripley was one of the original townships into which the county was divided April 1, 1822. She said the first settlement was made in 1821 by a group of Friends from North Carolina in 1821 and that ever since the Society of Friends had played an important part in the history of the township. She announced that a scene from the sixties would be given and that the costumes used were worn by the ancestral mothers of the women participating. The quilt used was made by one of the pioneers.

The scene represented the Friends protecting two runaway slaves and the following took part: Jesse and Ed Henley as slaves; Vanload as a sheriff seeking the slaves; Mrs. R. H. Hill, Mrs. Mary Hubbard, Mrs. Eunice Pablow, Mrs. Florence Parker, Mrs. Jesse Henley, Miss Ruth White, Miss Cora Clark and Miss Grace Overman.

This was the last township scene and in the closing scene of the pageant, the characters who figured in the early history of the county were introduced. Mrs. W. F. Kunkel appeared first as the Spirit of Progress, and the various young women who had represented the townships in previous scenes, came on again, with Miss Helen Pierson representing Rush county. Lon Havens impersonated the Rev. James Havens and typified Religion; Jesse Poe as Dr. William B. Laughlin, represented Education. Samuel L. Trabue as Governor Samuel Digger, represented Law. Dr. Cullen Sexton as Dr. Horation Sexton, represented Medicine, and Reuben Casady represented Thomas Casady, the Revolutionary soldier buried in this county. L. B. Downey, civil war veteran, and the American Legion solo squad appeared as Loyalty, and the scene closed with the Herald blowing his trumpet, signifying that the pageant had been concluded.

The pageant was written and directed by Mrs. A. L. Gary and she had the capable assistance of Mrs. Mary Glessner, Miss Nelle Casady, Miss Belle Gregg, Miss Mary Steeth, Miss Alice Norris, Mrs. Owen Kincaid, and others previously mentioned. Denning Havens was responsible for the woodland scene on the stage.

The long silver trumpet used by the Herald was available through the courtesy of Dr. Albert Bristow, an Indianapolis dentist. It is a family heirloom which came from England.

FEED BROOD SOWS PROTEINS

When Pasture Is Not Available Alfalfa Hay, Wheat Shorts or Tankage, Are Essential.

Brood sows should have feed that is rich in proteins, such as alfalfa hay, wheat shorts or tankage, when pasture is not available. The greatest development of the unborn pig takes place during the last 60 days of the gestation period, hence the importance of feeding brood sows from now until farrowing time.

Canny Youngster.

Helen and Edith were invited to a party, and as it was quite a distance for them to go alone it was decided to let Helen's brother Donald go with them. His mother told him if they asked him to stay he could, provided they phoned and told her. Donald took the girls to the door, and said: "My mother said I could stay and eat, too, provided you phoned and told her about it."

THE GOLDEN RULE—Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets.—Matt. 7:12.

Watson Starts Something

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana is receiving numerous congratulations on his speech covering the activities of foreign diplomats in attempting to influence the course of our legislation. His remarks have had an immediate effect among the foreign delegations at Washington. It is understood that Ambassador Gentes, to whose recent speeches Senator Watson specifically referred has visited Secretary Hughes in an attempt to show that he did not violate international courtesy in his public addresses. The representatives from other countries are similarly concerned, and there is every reason to believe that discretion will govern their future utterances.

It is now rumored that Ambassador Ricci of Italy may be recalled and that Marquis Della Torretta, former foreign minister of Italy may be sent to fill the post at Washington. Ricci was one of the foreign envoys to whom Senator Watson refers, and the latest developments indicate that the Hoosier senator had ample grounds for his remarks.

Peace Not Safe Yet

The war failed to insure the future peace of the world.

So did the treaty of Versailles.

So did the league of nations.

So did the Washington conference.

And the Geneva conference travel the same road.

Maudlin Sentiment

Every time a notorious criminal goes to jail a lot of mushy mushies begin to coddle him.

Excuses are sought, maudlin sentiment is created, and in the end the culprit is often turned loose by a yellow jury.

That is one reason why the country is debauched with crime.

If we can't keep the criminals in jail, why not substitute the mushy mushies and jurors?

That, at least, would be some consolation.

DIES OF DIPHTHERIA

How I made a hit with my husband

"THE porch needed new furniture and I hated to spend the money. A friend suggested that I see what Du Pont Colored Enamels would do. Without saying a word to my husband, I got a can and tried it out on a battered old chair. Why, it looked almost new! And it really dried hard—not a bit sticky. So I renewed every piece of furniture on the porch and the woodwork in the hall, too. It was easy and I saved a big furniture bill, which didn't hurt my popularity with my husband at all."

This little story applies in many ways to many homes. How about yours?

Hard Coal and Coke Good Combination for Baseburners

Good hard coal will probably be scarce for next winter. We can't get it at all now.

The question arises—Would it not be wise to buy coke for at least a part of my baseburner fuel? We have been fortunate the last few years in securing a coke that gives excellent satisfaction.

Not one single complaint has come to us where the coke we sell has been mixed with hard coal. Some like to use the coke by itself.

We have heard remarks like these:

"I like the coke you sold me for my baseburner. It makes a quicker fire than hard coal, and is easier to start."

"Your coke suits me for there are so few ashes."

"Mixed with hard coal I think it makes the ideal fuel. The coke makes the fire pick up quickly on a cold morning, and it holds well, too."

We now have some of this same coke. If you have a baseburner, you will make no mistake in ordering some of it. The price is $11.00 a ton delivered.

Tail Lights Sign a New Pitcher For The Game to be Played Here

The Tail Lights will play the Shirley A. C. team here Sunday afternoon on the West Third street diamonds, and the visiting team is said to have a strong line-up. The manager states that he has six college players, 2 ex-leaguers and 3 fast semi-pro players. The visiting team has always been represented by a fast bunch, and play only on the road, not having any place to play at Shirley.

The Tail Lights will have a new pitcher in the game, who has been highly recommended by John Spinnery of Cincinnati and whose name is Valentine. The local team will line-up with about the same team that has been used in the last few games.

Michelson, Boston outfielder, hit a homer in the thirteenth inning with Southworth on base and beat the Cardinals.

Elmer Smith hit a home run and gave the Indians a victory over the Athletics.

The Pirates beat the Robins in the seventeenth inning.

The Score Board

Yesterday's hero — George Kelly tied the score with a triple and drove in two runs with a double that enabled the Giants to beat the Pirates 4 to 2.

Topper Reigmy tripled in the eighth after Cobb and Heilman had singled and the Tigers nabbed two runs that beat the Yanks, 2 to 1.

Stock tied the score with a homer in the ninth inning and Hornsby won the game in the tenth with a double, the Cards topping the Robins 4 to 3. After a two months lay off, Duster Mails pitched six innings for the Indians and had to retire, the Red Sox, winning 5 to 3.

McMann's Homer with Sisler on base gave the Browns a 3 to 2 win over the Senators. The homer was a line drive that bounded over the left field fence.

George Smith let the Reds down with six scattered hits and the Phils finally won a game, 7 to 0.

With the bases filled, Hauser, pinch hitter, singled and gave the Athletics a 10 to 8 victory from the White Sox. Walker hit his twelfth home run and Dykes his sixth.

mobiles lining both sides of the street, and the procession was headed into East Fifth and thence north in Perkins to Ninth, where it turned west to the coliseum. There were thousands of people standing along Ninth street and along Main above Seventh who did not see any of the retailers' floats because most of them dropped out after the procession started north in Perkins street.

The parade revealed the progress of the century in Rush county as nothing else could have done. The historical division was especially effective in this respect, the township floats depicting some historical incident in connection with the life of the political unit.

It is estimated that at least ten thousands persons were in Rushville for the review. The crowd surged about the streets downtown and lined the parade route along Main street as far north as Ninth.

Forty-five minutes were required for the procession to pass the reviewing stand on the north steps of the court house.

Four mounted policemen lead the parade, followed by the Rushville band. The fire department display represented all of the different methods that have been employed to fight fire—the first ladder brigade truck, which was drawn by a mule, the fire engine bought in 1893 when W. T. Jackson was mayor, the combination hose and ladder wagon purchased in 1908 when H. M. Cowing was mayor, the small chemical motor truck added to the department in 1917 when C. L. Bebout was mayor and the modern motor pumper ordered in 1921 when R. F. Scudder was mayor.

Next in order was a demonstration by the postal service showing the different ways of carrying the mail during the last 100 years. First came a man on horseback with a mail sack thrown over his head, then the horse-drawn wagons which were formerly used on rural routes, then thirteen mail carriers of the county in their cars, then a truck loaded with parcel post and finally a truck with a diminutive airplane on the front and a replica of a locomotive and mail car on the rear.

The Rushville township delegation first in the historical division exhibited the different modes of travel used during the first century of the county's existence. First were men afoot and then men and women on horseback, some of them riding double as was the custom in the pioneer days. Following was a hay wagon hauling Rushville girls advertising a home-talent show to be given here soon, then a cart and a buggy and a carriage, followed by a decorated bicycle, one of the vintage of the eighties, ridden by William Armetle of Homer. Next was an old Maxwell automobile which a sign said was found in an alley, followed by a late model of the same make. Following were two very late models of automobiles. Representatives of Rush post No. 150 of the American Legion and Company C of the Indiana National Guard brought up the rear of the Rushville section.

Many of the townships with floats had no markers on them and the thousands of people were at a loss to account for this oversight. Following the Rushville township delegation was an automobile, a cart drawn by a mule, a prairie schooner, a log house mounted on a wagon, four persons on horseback, none of which bore any sign to indicate what they represented.

Next in order was an old one-cylinder car and following was a farm wagon attractively decorated representing Noble township. A white mule team attractively decorated representing Noble township. A white mule team pulled a prairie schooner bearing the words, "North Carolina, 1822." Ripley township was represented by two modern automobiles and a beautiful float.

The Anderson township delegation made a splendid showing. It was led by Charles Davis astride a horse and bearing a banner indicating the demonstration meant. Two children on horseback rode beside Mr. Davis and following him were two old-time hunters afoot and leading their roon dogs. Next was a log cabin mounted on a truck, on the rear of which sat a man and woman garbed in clothes of the pioneer days. Then came six persons on horseback, some dressed in riding habits that were once in vogue, and an old fashioned carryall. Next was the Anderson township singing school, composed of several men and women in pioneer dress. They made it more realistic by singing old-time songs with a leader standing before them. They rode in an old-fashioned, horse-drawn vehicle. A decorated roadster and a very artistic float representing the horn of plenty, was the last of the Anderson township delegation.

Coming next were seven decorated automobiles and two decorated automobile trucks bearing school children, which was Union township's contribution to the parade. Walker township was represented by a float on which sat men and women dressed in the different styles that have come and gone in the past. Following the float were a man and woman on horseback, garbed in riding habits which were once in style. Bringing up the rear of the historical section were two machines bearing Rushville boys who are taking summer work under A. F. Cotton. Following were several decorated bicycles.

The fraternal section was led by the Indiana Masonic Home Boys' band of Franklin, headed by Little Donnie Jim Cochran, six years old, toggled out with high fuzzy hat and drum major's stick, every inch a leader.

Next came the Knights of Columbus float, an immense boat, a replica of the one in which Columbus sailed to America. A boy standing on the deck represented Columbus. Following was an equally beautiful float entered by St. Mary's Catholic church, representing religion, art and science. Both floats were built on wagons drawn by four horses.

Next came eighteen Indians mounted and sixteen walking, all decorated with their war paint. Immediately following was the Red Men's float and then a float by the Ladies of the G. A. R. in which they were represented as ministering to the wants of a war veteran. Next in order were two Odd Fellows floats carrying many banners, the first one setting forth the fact that the lodge had five members and no resources 100 years ago and the second one the fact that the lodge was the largest in the world now, both in point of numbers and resources.

Following was the Royal Neighbors float and then one representing the Modern Woodmen, attached to which was another float built on a wagon representing "The Unprotected Home." Then came the Tall Cedars, Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters floats. The fraternal division ended with a decorated automobile representing the Elks lodge.

The Knightstown Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home band led the industrial section and was followed by the Daily Republican's truck, which was an immense sign built over an automobile, bordered on the bottom with samples of the papers covering a period of fifty years. Next was a truck bearing a machine which is manufactured by Charles E. Francis & Co., makers of glue working machinery and factory trucks. The Dill Foundry company was represented by samples of castings they make, displayed on a truck, and following it were Mr. and Mrs. Will Dill riding in an old-fashioned carriage. The next combined old age and modern travel. Mrs. Susan Tingley, ninety-eight years old, rode with Mrs. Sarah Gullin in a new automobile. Kyle's paint shop was represented by a decorated car.

The Reynolds Manufacturing Company made the most elaborate display of any establishment in the county, just as this concern did in the Centennial parade of 1916. First rode Frank Reynolds, the head of the company, followed in another machine by George Moore, Jr., superintendent. Next came the timber buyers for the company in two automobiles and following them were the men who cut the logs, riding in an old-fashioned, horse-drawn vehicle. Next was a wagon showing the operation of sawing a log and following were nine log teams, every wagon well loaded, each with a different kind of timber. The next thing was labeled the "Go-Getter," which was a small caterpillar truck that drags logs from the woods to open places where they may be loaded. Then came two trucks loaded with logs and a hand saw 37 feet long and containing 295 teeth. The saw was bent and held tight in a frame built on a wagon. Then followed the finished product, a load of sawed lumber, a load of dimension crating and a load of dry and green kindling. This ended the Reynolds display.

A replica of a house, complete in every detail, built on a truck, was the entry of the Capitol Lumber Co., and it won a lot of applause all along the parade route. Castings made at the Arbuckle foundry were displayed on a truck and the Rushville Furniture company was represented by a bedroom suit attractively arranged on a decorated truck. The Innis, Pearce Co., likewise was represented by a decorated float bearing a beautiful bedroom suit and following this was an exhibit of library furniture made by the Park Furniture Co.

Next were floats bearing displays of the National Gate Co., and the Schriebe Monument Works. A tractor representing the Rushville Implement Co., followed by a float showing the Hoosier Corn Turner company's product. Following was an old Franklin owned by H. V. Lewark of Glenwood, pulling a 1922 model Franklin sedan in which Joe Clark, local Franklin man, rode. A similar arrangement was used to demonstrate of the Rakekin hitch. Next came a White Star gasoline truck and then three models of Chevrolet and Buicks sold by John Kuech. Next came the Rush County Mills, Winkler Grain Co. and Red Crown gasoline trucks. Following were floats entered by the American Paper Products Co., and the DeSchipper canning factory both of Carthage and both displaying their products. Next was a decorated automobile representing the Boxley Piano Co.

Following was a beautiful float, "A study in black and white," entered by George C. Wyatt & Co., which had to be seen to be appreciated. Next was a beautiful float entered by E. R. Casady and following were floats and decorated machines representing Bowen's garage, Johnson's drug store, Finney's bicycle shop and O'Neal Brothers. Next came an Oldsmobile built in 1899, driven by Nick Tompkins, local representative, and followed by a 1922 model. The Arlington band marched in the retail section of the retail division.

Others represented in the retail section with floats, decorated machines and by other means were H. S. Havens, the Callaghan Co., Will Treanepohl, L. C. Sharp, the Manzy Co., McIntyre's shoe store, the O. P. C. H. Pitman and Wilson's drug store, Bussard's garage, Hargrove and Mullin's drug store, Wingerter's cigar shop, Charles Brown's grocery, Shuster and Epstein, Mascari's fruit store, Pence's auto top factory and Mullins and Taylor, Ford and Fordson dealers.

Goshen, Ind.—"I had coughed night and day for a whole year and had lost so much flesh I began to look like a walking skeleton. Two of my sisters had died from tuberculosis and I felt certain that my time had come. Finally, a friend recommended Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to my husband, and it made me feel new strength and vitality right from the start and in a year's time I was just as strong and hardy as ever. I have never suffered with a deep, hacking cough since (that was about 20 years ago) and have always felt very grateful to Dr. Pierce."—Mrs. Eliza Teeter, 413 Middlebury St.

A quiet wedding was solemnized Thursday night at eight o'clock at the First United Presbyterian church parsonage by the Rev. E. G. McKibbin, the pastor, when Roy Kennedy and Ada Peed of this city were married. The couple was attended by Miss Goldie Jessup and Joseph Powell and the other guests included Squire Peed of Kentucky, father of the bride; Mrs. Reo Garrison, sister of the bride, who resides in that state; Mrs. Garrison, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lakin. The bride formerly resided at Alberta, Kentucky. She was attired in a beautiful crepe de chine dress; and after a short wedding trip they will reside in this city.

Too Busy?

Too busy to go to church Sunday? Some day the angel of death will tap your shoulder. You cannot put him off.

Why not cultivate the spiritual side of your nature?

The old commandment: "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work; but the seventh day is a Sabbath" was intended for you. Cold-blooded economists tell us that men who rest on Sunday do the most work.

There is a seat for you in this church. Come Sunday.

Remember the Sabbath to keep it holy. In it thou shalt not do any work.

Women Men Admire

Men admire a pretty face, a good figure, but more than all a buoyant disposition and the charm of happy content. There is no question but what a light-hearted woman is the joy of a man's life, but no woman can be happy and joyful when dragged down by the ailments that so often develop headaches, backache, nervousness and "the blues."

We are continually publishing in this paper letters from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after doctors and other medicines have failed to help them. If you are ill why not give it a trial.

American," Mr. Beveridge continued, "and there is not another country on the globe like the United States. Even the racial populace of our country is different from any other. In France it is the French, in England it is the English, in Belgium the people are Belgians and in Italy they are Italians."

"Over here in America we have a mixed populace; three-fourths of a million are Greeks, 5,000,000 are Italians, as many Scandinavians as there are people in Canada, 15,000,000 English, 20,000,000 Germans, 2 or 3 million Belgians besides Russians, Chinese, Japanese and others. They are all a collection of racial groups."

In this connection, he prayed that the day was not far distant when all of these could be boiled down into one group, to be known to the world as American People—and to be a different race from any other country.

Besides the constitution, the institutions, the people, all being exclusively American, he stated that the laws of our country stood out as exclusive laws, and were unlike any other republic on the globe.

In this particular point, he brought out the fact that the courts have the power to overthrow legislation which they believe is unjust, and that this element is the heart of the American constitutional system.

In connection with the mixed race which the speaker would have embodied into a new racial group, he stated that this would be the only way that propaganda could be suppressed, which is dangerous to any government.

The speaker then discussed the wars in which the United States had taken part, and brought out forcibly that every war this nation has waged, she was in the right.

He praised the records of Rush county soldiers in all of these conflicts, and remarked that the first general for the Union army to be killed on the battlefield was General P. A. Hackleman of this county and that the first soldier to be killed in another great battle was a color bearer, Steve Bodine, also of this county, and he said there were others who had fallen with the tide that swept the nation.

He called attention to the fact that out of this county 2400 volunteers appeared during that civil strife, and that Abraham Lincoln, then president, told Gov. Oliver Morton that Rush county, Indiana, furnished more soldiers than any other spot in the north.

The orator touched upon the war of 1898, and when he came up to the World War of 1917, he was interrupted by John Nipp, Sr., who was sitting in the center of the audience. Mr. Nipp shouted for him not to mention that war.

Mr. Beveridge stated that he intended to go on, and people in the audience urged him to continue, and as he related the circumstances causing the war, he was given a great ovation when he shouted, "And our American soldiers won the war."

The speaker was interrupted several more times during the closing remarks by Mr. Beveridge, when he referred to the allies debt, and urged that they should be forced to pay, which was against the wishes of Mr. Nipp, who was again booed by the audience when the speaker brought home most eloquently the fact again that it was the American's money that had been loaned during the Liberty bond drives.

"The hardest campaigns that I ever fought, or ever hope to fight for," Mr. Beveridge continued, "was during that war when I fought for subscriptions. Farmers donated most liberally, many of them oversubscribed and had to borrow money; school teachers that I knew invested all of their savings, to help win that war, and I myself, bought and bought and even borrowed money to buy more," and directing his finger at Mr. Nipp, he shouted, "And how much did you buy?" Mr. Nipp replied, "Not a dollar, not a dollar."

In closing his address the speaker again pointed out after reviewing the wars, that every war waged by this country was just and righteous.

When Mr. Beveridge concluded his speech, he was loudly applauded and Judge Sparks stepped to the center of the stage and offered to apologize for the manner in which he had been interrupted, and remarked that such occurrences are not frequently indulged in by Rush county audiences. The audience again cheered Judge Sparks, and A. L. Gary, who was the government appeal agent during the war, stepped up, and shouted that "The man who interrupted you, Mr. Beveridge, was the most disloyal citizen in Rush county during the war."

Crowds gathered around Mr. Nipp at the close of the speech, and several fists were thrust into his face. When he attempted to reach Mr. Beveridge on the stage to continue the argument, he was escorted out of the building.

Gorgeous Costumes In Picture

The flapper's secret obsession is how to wear clothes, clothes, clothes, in such a manner as to bring out every charm she possesses. Rich girls, poor girls think of this constantly, and it must be pretty nearly true, for Solomon in all his glory was never arrayed as one of these twentieth century heart smashers.

All of which brings forth the fact that Marie Prevost, the Universal star whose chief hobby is designing her own clothes for screen appearances, has a few nifty creations of the Long Island-1922 type on display in her new starring vehicle, "The Dangerous Little Demon," at the Princess today and Saturday.

Since Marie quit the sea and hung up the raiment of the beach, in which she won her fame as a California peach, she has never worn such ravishing clothes as she wears in this Universal comedy.

In addition to this feature show, two high class acts of vaudeville will be shown and a Mack Sennett comedy.

At Mystic Today.

Many of the exterior scenes in "High-Gear Jeffrey," showing at the Mystic theatre today were taken in Los Angeles. In this feature Wm. Russell appears as the driver of a public taxi-cab, and looks the part to a T. While waiting at the curb to be snapped by the camera man, a prospective passenger demanded to be taken immediately to the Southern Pacific Station, offering a bonus for a quick trip. Russell was game and ready to accept the job, but Director Edward Sloman insisted on immediately shooting the scene. The would-be "fare" departed in high dudgeon, commenting angrily on the independence of taxi-drivers in general, and this chauffeur in particular.

"High-Gear Jeffrey" is a typical Russell feature, cram-jam with quick action and scenes which swing constantly from high tension to comedy and back again.

FISHING FOR BASS IS NOW PERMITTED

Word Reaching Conservation Officials Indicate Thousands Of Persons Took Advantage Of Law

YOUNG FISH ARE PLENTIFUL

Desire Of Division To Educate People Of State To Observe Games Laws And Secure Cooperation

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16 — Today marked the opening for lawful fishing for black bass and blue gills in Indiana public waters, and word reaching conservation officials indicate that thousands of persons took advantage of the first of the open season and tried their luck for the elusive big ones.

Bass and blue gills have been protected since April 30 by a state law which establishes the closed season in order these fishes reproduce in a natural way free from disturbance from anglers. George N. Mannfeld, chief of the fish and game division of the state conservation department, estimates that millions of young fish are now in public waters of this state that would not be there had there been no protected season.

Mr. Mannfeld today called attention to the latest publication of his division. It is a condensed pocket-size pamphlet giving the fish and game laws, open and closed seasons and a variety of useful information for people who wish to obey the laws when fishing and hunting in Indiana. Fifty thousand pamphlets are just off the press and are for free distribution. Write the fish and game division of the conservation department if you wish one, he says.

"It is the desire of this division to educate people of the state to observance of fish and game laws and thus secure their cooperation in our work rather than to force observance through the warden service," Mr. Mannfeld said. He believes everyone who hunts and fishes should possess one of the new pamphlets for many violations occurring in the year are by persons without knowledge of the laws and who are not wilful violators by any means. For that class which seek piratical methods to secure their game, they can only be regulated by the warden service, Mannfeld says.

Mr. Mannfeld points out that a

We Again Address You

on the subject of Straight Savings, at your convenience, without frills or "red-tape." We call your attention to the following important points which are only some of the many advantages, to you.

INTEREST. Your account will be credited on January 1st and July 1st, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, not 3 per cent or less. Remember this.

PAYMENTS. Failure to make any payment does not forfeit interest due you. It would not be fair to you if it did. Consider this while planning your Savings.

WITHDRAWALS. These can be made at any time without previous notice. All you have to do is to bring in your Pass-book.

SECURITY. Every dollar of your deposit is invested in Rush County or Rushville real estate mortgages. We never loan over 75 per cent of the actual cash value of the property, generally much less. Appraisements are made by a committee of the shareholders, and not by the officers. Don't this look safe?

EXAMINATIONS. We are under rigid annual examinations by the Auditor of State and are examined just the same as banks and trust companies.

BONDS. Our active officer is under a heavy Surety Company Bond for the faithful performance of his trust.

INSURANCE. We carry insurance against "Day-light Hold-up" and Night Burglary just the same as Banks and Trust Companies.

OUR AGE. We have been in business over a third of a century and are the oldest and original home for Savings in Rush County.

DEPOSITS. Remember that no account is too small to receive our best attention and neither is any deposit too large for us to properly handle.

REMEMBER. That all amounts that you have to your credit on June 24 begin to draw 6 per cent per annum, not 3 per cent on July -st, 1922.

HOURS. We are open from 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. each day and on Saturday nights we are open for your convenience from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m.

INFORMATION. That is not set out above will be cheerfully given by the officer in charge.
